

Abstract of the Disclosure

A two part carton includes an open top container and a separate top closure. The open top container includes opposed side walls and opposed end walls. One of the side walls is provided at its uppermost edge with a top flap that is folded downwardly with respect to the uppermost edge to extend into the open top container. The top closure includes a top panel and an engaging tab. The top flap of the open top container engages with the engaging tab of the top closure such that the top closure is locked in a recessed position below the uppermost edge of the open top container. The top closure further includes inner and outer handle panels.
